

NHTSA's nine most recent cases in U.S. District Court in Washington D.C. :

17-01266: Quality Control Systems Corporation v. U.S. Department of Transportation.

-Plaintiff sued for data underlying NHTSA report on Tesla's "Autosteer" technology.
-NHTSA provided the data after court denied agency motion. Case is still pending costs and attorney's fees.

16-00907: Atkinson v. U.S. Department of Transportation.

-Plaintiff sued for records on Ford vehicles after NHTSA claimed it had provided all responsive records.
-NHTSA provided additional records as part of settlement, as well as $14,000 in attorneys' fees and costs.

15-01178: Liberman v. U.S. Department of Transportation

-Lawsuit seeking records about vehicles equipped with "smart key" technology after NHTSA denied plaintiff's request for waiver of $2,070 in processing fees.
-Court rejected DOT claim that plaintiff did not qualify as news media, granted attorney fees and costs.

13-01702: Safety Research & Strategies Inc. v. U.S. Department of Transportation

-Plaintiff sued for additional records about two vehicle crashes.
-NHTSA settled and gave plaintiff the records, paid $5,000 in attorney fees and costs.

12-551: Safety Research & Strategies Inc. v. U.S. Department of Transportation

-Lawsuit for records about recall of Evenflo Discovery car seats.
-NHTSA provided additional records to plaintiff in a settlement after court denied government's motion to throw out the case.

11-02165: Safety Research & Strategies Inc. v. U.S. Department of Transportation

-Plaintiff sued for records about unintended acceleration in a Toyota vehicle after NHTSA stated that some records were exempt from disclosure.
-NHTSA provided additional records as part of a settlement, as well as $10,250 in attorney fees and costs.

12-00101: Safety Research & Strategies Inc. v. U.S. Department of Transportation

-Lawsuit for records that NHTSA stated were exempt from disclosure.
-NHTSA provided additional records as part of a settlement, as well as $3,000 in legal fees and costs.

08-02057: Center for Auto Safety v. National Highway Traffic Safety Administration

-Plaintiff sued for records on the risks of cellphone use by drivers.

-NHTSA provided the requested records as part of a settlement.

07-00590: Quality Control Systems Corp. v. U.S. Department of Transportation

-Lawsuit sued for records concerning deaths and injuries in crashes of Ford Explorers.

-NHTSA provided the requested records as part of a settlement.